“ Uncle Frank, I will miss you. You set me on my path to computers when we sat in "our" room and you helped me type so many lines of code to play tic-tac-toe (i was like 5...). You helped my mom many times when she just needed someone to talk to and understand. You came to my college tour at Rensselaer and before that time you showed me how proud one could be at a graduation ceremony when you went back to school and graduated (something I know my mom always wanted to do and was proud of you for the achievement). I remember the summers when mom and I would drive to visit and you would plan outings for us, even a simple walk to the deli felt like an adventure or waking up with a cat staring at me. I remember how nostalgic you were on our last dinner and the emails we sent afterwards exchanging pictures. I hope you have found peace and reunited with your parents, sister and son and others you cared about. Grandma's got her dancing shoes on waiting for you. Find your cats at the rainbow bridge.

“ Frank, you will forever be missed and loved. The best gift you ever gave me was your son. Without Nick, we wouldn't have our daughter Mia. I am very thankful to have been able to be apart of your life. I will always miss hearing you call Nick, "Nicky" on the phone. See you again some day, and love always.

Dad I miss you so much. All the dinners we both cancelled and trips to the store we never took. Everyone thinks they have time until you don't. The Leone Brother will remain in business and your legacy will live on through us. Me and Lisa got the cats ashes you were waiting for. Steven and Brionna have cleaned your apartment so you can Rest in Peace knowing everything is taken care of. I love you.

MY deepest condolences to the family and many, many friends of Frank. Frank, when you see God, Bill W, Dr. Bob and all the others. Please tell them Thank you for loaning you to the many you helped spread the message to. Yeah, yeah, Yeah. Even I, took my first thought and did the opposite, before typing this. RIP Franky. You made things simple, helped many learn humility through example, by helping others, and hope, some day, we can all make the program.

Frank you reached out to me when I first entered the rooms. I received my first Big Book from you and I still have it-even though it's in pieces. Thank you for your kind and loving help. I can never forget you.*
