“ I miss you Grandma! I wish you didn't suffer, and you knew us. It hasn't been easy for me at all when you didn't know who we were anymore. I thought I was doing the right thing and it wasn't. What I'd do to hear your voice again, say Lynne Marie. I did make sure I wore a dress, wore my hair how you loved it when I was growing up. I was able to fulfill that promise. I'm now alone and have no one. I've never felt more alone in my life than I do since you all left. I got your sign. Just watch over Taylor and Connor for me, keep them, my nieces Allison and Lex, and my nephew Thomas safe. I love you so much. I'm just not sure how much I can take anymore. I will do what I said 20 years ago and what I told grandpa I was going to do. I predicted this with him. You both gave me your blessing. I hope I see you again someday. Until then....

Today was your Birthday, the first without you. I miss and love you so much. Nothing makes sense anymore. I feel lost. I have changed, I have learned from my mistakes, and I'm being tortured for them. Every one is different, tired, lies, no one communicates. I wish you knew how much I would love to talk to you, bake cakes, have your gravy, hear your voice, say Lynne Marie. I wish I made you proud. I'll never know until my time. I hope you had a wonderful birthday up in heaven with our family and especially with Grandpa. Keep watching over and guiding. I'm really going through a rough time, no one lets up, and blames me for everything. I hope you got our balloons and messages. I love you forever and always, until we meet again!

Love
Lynne Marie

“ Grace, her name says it all. I've known Grace and her family my whole life. Her children, grandchildren, and great grandchildren were what she lived for, and they all adored her, as did her husband Ed. She was a very lucky woman. Rest in peace Grace.
