Trader Joe's gave me a big beautiful bouquet of flowers in my Mom's memory with her favorite a Rose in the center ! How thoughtful of them. The kindness from a place she never worked for, just shopped at. Her own job never even acknowledged her death at all, what a shame.

“ Joyce died of a blood clot in the brain on Thursday December 7, 2017 at 11:30 pm. After a long fight with three different cancers she was on many medications including chemo injections/pills, and radiation. She suffered with severe osteoporosis all through her bones along with the cancer. Joyce also suffered with atrial fibrillation. She powered and smiled her way through it all !! Joyce said she wasn't going to let the cancer get her, and for little over two years it didn't. The medications that can cause blood clots won out over all and took her shining light away from us all. Her radiating joy will no longer be here and I now understand truly what gratitude means. I love you mama

“ Since 2004 Joyce suffered with breast cancer that then later on metastasized to her bones and her lung. She suffered with much pain that came and went, but still she remained vigilant and optimistic in her fight. She looked at the face of death and fought for many years every step of the way. Joyce was the living embodiment of strength, determination, and resilience. She lived and she loved without judgement toward anyone. Joyce was a kind, loyal, jovial, trusting, devoted, and loving person and she will be missed tremendously. The world will be worse off for her loss and suffering. Joyce leaves behind a brother, a son, a daughter, a son in-law, two grandchildren, nieces and nephews. You will suffer no more, as it should be. Ashes to ashes, dust to dust. You are free now. We love you.
