“ My Aunt Lil...She was beautiful and full of fun! She taught me to stay up late, to play rummy and solitaire all while enjoying RC cola or a good Pepsi. Five of my favorite things to this day! She taught me that people will try to knock you down but you have to stand up and be the bigger person. She'd say Sar-Jane, “ you mark my words, one day they will get what's coming to them!” She was smart, she had a big heart and a great laugh! I can hear it now. 😍 She must have loved Jesus for she would say “Jesus Christ in good times and Jesus Christ when she was mad. She'd call me Skinnie Minnie in fun and Sar-Jane when she was serious. Once she called me a “little snot” 🤪 As I look at her picture today, I remember the last time I saw her when I was still a teenager over thirty years ago....she was full of life and smiling. I love you Aunt Lil! Thank you for being a part of my childhood. You were my favorite! 💕 Sar-Jane

“ I have vague memories of you , but the ones I do have are great. You were always at Lucilles and would yell at Johnnie and I for hiding your shoes . We knew you were just playing when you hollered at us for that. I wish out father could have been more of a compassionate adult and allowed us to be family . To your immediate family, I am truly sorry for your loss .

“ Very loved i am grateful she took care of me, i lived with her till i started kindergarten when i had to move at home she would visit i would wear her Harley Davidson boots an sleep in her leather jacket so she wouldn't leave while i was sleeping she then became my babysitter . almost daily for many years me my brothers an sisters played kick ball ,cards an board games with aunt lill .she smoked kool cigarettes an was so much fun to be around .she is the reason i like ketchup on French toast not syrup .it saddens me to think her grandkids didn't get the time she gave me i love her an have always wished she was my mother although she took good care of me like she was my mom . I'm thankful she was in my life . i regret not visiting more as an adult . i love a unit lill to me she always had a big heart . u will be missed .
