“ May my Angels meet you at the windows of the sky, or perhaps with a blink of an eye for consciousness love and energy never die and remember for those of us here who carry the torch for we are the light bearers and guides from earth for those we know and love in the unseen worlds within our worlds may our lights guide you home, for we are creating a new earth our heaven on earth , remembering who you truly are again and what lessons youve left here from your short mission so that for others to be able to learn feel and educate themselves within (God) from the pain the love the struggles the strength to be able to overcome the dark to shine in your light, for if we understood truth within our source heavy hearts would be nothing but a myth, i send love light and peace like the warm Sommer sun ...
